New Delhi (CNN) — A couple in India are suing their son and daughter-in-law -- for not giving them grandchildren after six years of marriage.

Sadhana and Sanjeev Prasad, who live in Haridwar, a city in northern Uttarakhand state, filed a petition this month seeking 50 million Indian rupees (about $643,000) in damages from their son, 35, and his wife, 31.

In the petition, viewed by CNN, the couple claim they spent about 20 million Indian rupees (about $257,000) raising their son, who is an only child.

"They raised him, educated him, made him capable, made him a pilot -- which was expensive," said the couple's legal representative, Arvind Srivastava, on Monday.

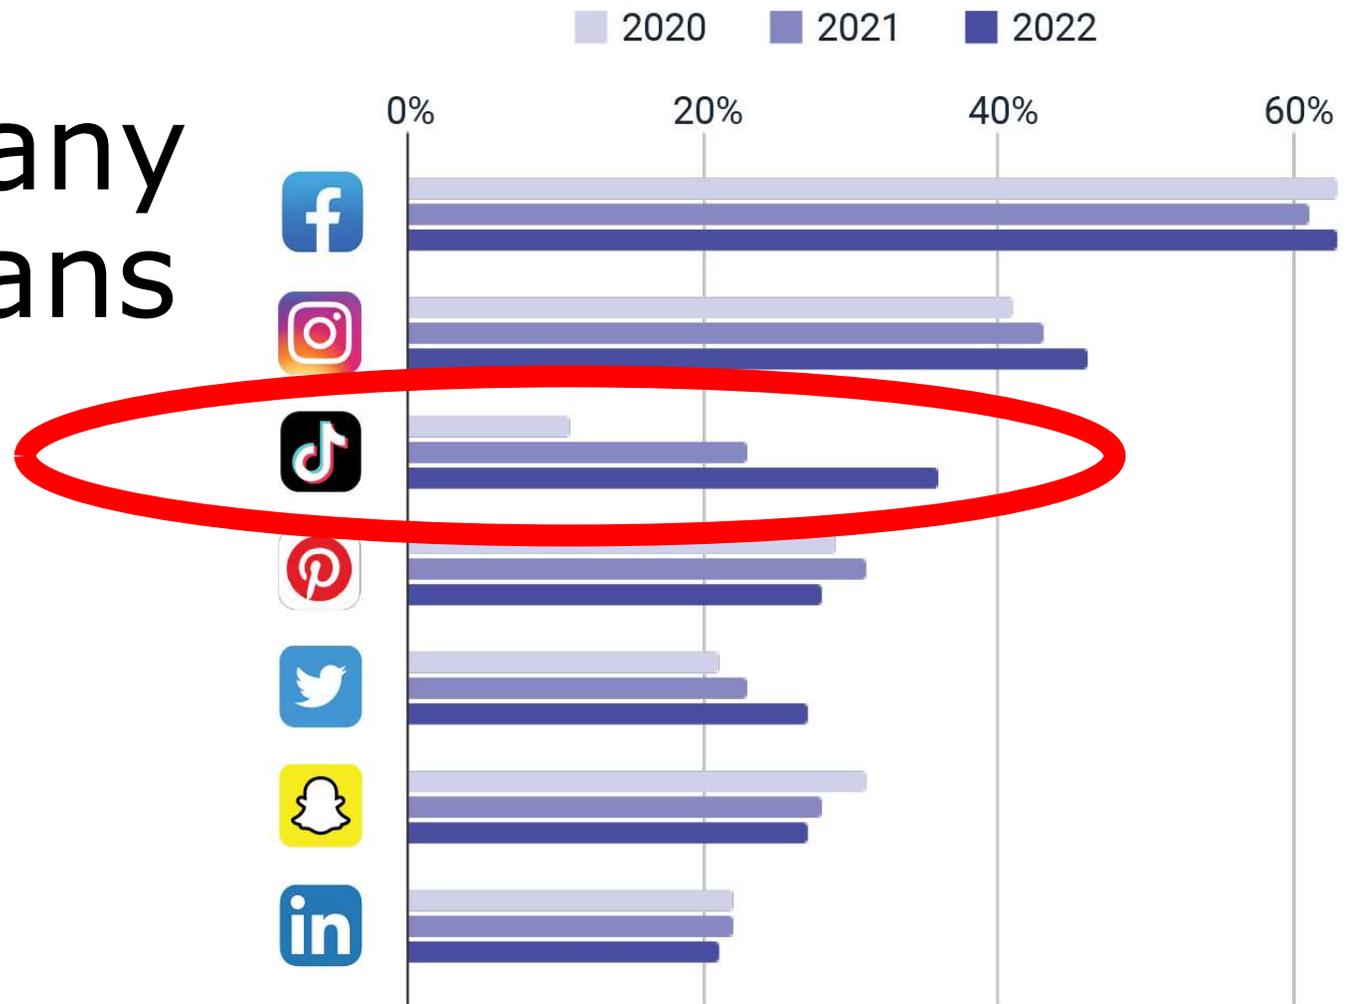

"They see people in their neighborhood playing with their grandchildren and feel like they should also have one.

"They said they didn't marry (their son and daughter-in-law) off so that they can live alone ... So they said that in the next year, either give us a grandchild or give us compensation."

In the United States I encountered a society that seeks to avoid pain at all costs. Patients in the West lived in far greater comfort level and a level of safety than anyone I'd had previously treated, but they seemed far less equipped to handle the suffering and far more traumatized by it

He was despised and rejected by mankind, a man of suffering, and familiar with pain. Like one from whom people hide their faces he was despised, and we held him in low esteem.

Nowhere is He (Jesus) the victim of circumstances or the helpless sufferer. Everywhere and always, it is He who possesses the mastery both of circumstances and of Himself.
